FARMERS' INSTITUTE IS HELPFUL MEET

OVER 100 WORKERS LISTENED TO INSTITUTE TALKS BY EXPERTS TODAY.

The Lee county Farmers' Institute, which was held today at the People's church in this city, was attended by about 100 interested workers, and the suggestions and instruction they received are reported to have been most beneficial. The morning session was characterized by a very thoughtful talk on Good Roads by T. R. Agg of Springfield, in which he gave the audience some very good hints on the proper care of the roads. I. B. Countryman followed Mr. Agg, talking on milking machines and other farm improvements. Mr. Countryman has one of the best equipped farms in the county and his instruction was doubly valuable because it was from one who knows his subject thoroughly.

Following the music by Walter Stott and Frank Salisbury, at the afternoon session, H. B. Green spoke on The Biggest Little Thing Under the Flag—the American Hen. Mr. Green is a recognized authority on poultry and he told some things that astounded his hearers. He is a firm advocate of the hen as a producer, and advocated that every farmer raise more of them. J. P. Mason spoke most intelligently of the Dairy and Domestic Science department, in which Mrs. J. H. McMurray gave an interesting and helpful demonstration of Frozen Desserts was one of the features of the meet.

The institution will close this evening with the following program: Music—Walter Stott and Frank Salisbury.

Vocal Solo—Mrs. Lee Read.

Address—Managing Joan, Mrs. J. H. McMurray.

Tomorrow practically the same institution will be given in Amboy.

BRICK ON SECOND STREET CONTEMPLATED

BOARD IS HAVING FIGURES FOR IMPROVEMENT PREPARED; MUCH WORK AHEAD.

In addition to the paving contemplated by the board of local improvements which was published in last night's issue of the Telegraph, it is understood that the board is having figures prepared on bricking Second street from Galena to Monroe avenues. It will be remembered that a committee of residents of that street appeared before the board during the third street proceedings and asked that their street be bricked. The board is desirous of complying with the request, and accordingly an estimate of the cost is being prepared. Incidentally the commissioners will probably add to the Second street improvement the bricking of Hennepin and Peoria avenues from Second to Third streets, and the pavement from Third to First streets on Monroe avenue, and east on First street from Monroe to Madison avenues. This could all be done under one proceeding, thus saving much of the lawful costs.

CHILDREN MOVED TO NEW ORPHANAGE

NACHUSA HOME COMPLETED SUFFICIENTLY FOR OCCUPANCY BY INMATES TUESDAY.

NEW BUILDING IS MOST MODERN

Was Erected at Cost of $13,000 — Is Fireproof and Arranged for Convenience.

Nachusa, Dec. 11.—The children of the Nachusa Lutheran orphanage yesterday moved into the handsome new building, which replaces the old structure destroyed by fire April 3. The new building, while not entirely completed, is sufficiently along to allow occupancy and the finishing touches will be done during the winter, allowing for the dedication next spring.

The moving into the new building, the dormitories, kitchen, dining room and two bedrooms which have been completed, was a joyous occasion for the children and the members of the board of directors were present: Mr. Lamar of Clinton, Ia., who is president; Rev. Harris of Sterling and Rev. Keller of Polo.

Cost $13,000.

The new building is one of the most modern and convenient in the control of the Northern Illinois Synod of Lutheran churches. It was built at a cost of $13,000 and meets every requirement of a first class institution. In the basement of the structure, which is 38x50 feet, are the dining room, kitchen, cellar, furnace and laundry. The school room, reception room, offices and a few bedrooms are on the first floor, while the dormitories and matron's rooms are on the second floor. The new home will accommodate sixty children and will be in charge of Alberta Harris, the new matron, who succeeds Rev. and Mrs. Wirick, who resigned their positions last spring because of Rev. Wirick's poor health.

THAT STERLING CORRESPONDENT SENDS FAKE STORY TO CHICAGO PAPERS ABOUT WM. ASCHER.

Freeport Standard: Some brilliant youth at Sterling sent a dispatch to Chicago papers yesterday stating that Wm. Ascher of Freeport would give Christmas presents to 400 children, first come, first served. The report has caused Mr. Ascher no end of annoyance as he has already been deluged with applications from the youngsters who want to be included in the 'first 400.' One lad at Dakota sent a postal card to Mr. Ascher to be sure to put his name on the list of favored ones.

YOUR LAST CHANCE.

Tomorrow will be the last time in nearly a century that any business man will be able to date his memoranda by the use of three consecutive numbers.

On that day a letter may be dated '12-12-12.' The next time anything of the kind can be done will be Jan. 1, 2001, when it would be dated '1-1-1.' Following that will be Oct. 10, 2010.

Dating letters with the same three numbers may be done once a year for the first 12 years in any century. Jan. 1, 1901, was the beginning of the last period.

The oldest Odd Fellow in Illinois, if not in the world, celebrated his birthday yesterday at his home in Polo. He is J. L. Parmalee of Polo, and the occasion was his 90th birthday. Mr. Parmalee is still hale and hearty as a younger man and regularly takes part in the Odd Fellows' meetings, being one of the best posted men on Odd Fellowship in the country.

Marches With Odd Fellows.

A few weeks ago Mr. Parmalee attended the funeral of Mr. Anderson. Despite his extreme age he marched with the Odd Fellows and proved as well able to keep up with the procession as many of the men twenty years younger.

Friends Assist Him.

The members of Polo lodge of Odd Fellows and his friends assisted Mr. Parmalee in celebrating his anniversary. He was showered with postal cards, while a large number of people called at his home to tender congratulations.

The tree fell and lodged in another one and then fell in an opposite direction and hit Mr. Saeger. He was struck on the back and shoulder and paralyzed from the shoulders down. A branch struck him on the head and completely tore the scalp off on the right side of his head.

REPORT THAT HE HAD BEEN TRANSFERRED TO STERLING IS DENIED.

Concerning a report which gained circulation in Sterling and which was published in one of the papers there, to the effect that District Superintendent Dean Treat of the Illinois Northern Utilities company had been transferred to Sterling, the Standard says:

T. R. Woulfe of the I. N. U. company stated to a Standard representative this morning that he had not been transferred from Sterling to Dixon nor had Dean Treat been transferred here from Dixon. Mr. Woulfe is known as assistant district superintendent under Dean Treat who is superintendent of district D of the company. At a meeting held recently it was suggested that Mr. Woulfe acquaint himself with the business of the company in all the towns in the district so that in case Mr. Treat should be sick or absent from the district he would be familiar with affairs and ready to take Mr. Treat's share of the work. Mr. Woulfe spent yesterday in Dixon, but is in Sterling again today.

MORRISON, STERLING AND FULTON OFFICIALS NOT FRIENDLY TO BIG POWER COMPANY.

WILL REWIRE STERLING SYSTEM

Morrison Council Refuses Gas Permit and Fulton Contract Remains Unsigned.

The Illinois Northern Utilities company is in more than its share of hot water in Whiteside county. Reports from Morrison, Fulton and Sterling indicate that the officials in those cities are not too friendly with the big company, whose headquarters are in Dixon. Reports from Morrison are:

Morrison Wants Own Plant.

Morrison Sentinel: The citizens of Morrison approve the action of the council in refusing to grant the gas permit to the Illinois Northern Utilities company on Friday evening. In an interview with several business men and other citizens Saturday, the Sentinel's representative received the information that citizens of Morrison were in favor of settling the franchise matter now. It was stated that in order to settle the matter they could be inconvenienced for the next few weeks at least. It was stated that the service could not be any worse than it has been for the past few months.

There is a strong sentiment in the city for Morrison to own its own municipal lighting plant. The members of the council individually state that they intend to investigate the matter thoroughly before and definite action in regard to the granting of the gas permit on the street lighting contract.

DEMENTTOWN ... DOINGS

Commissioner Gannon pays this col. a tribute. He announced to the council Monday evening that the Dementtown Doings wanted to know where the West End park proposition had disappeared to. We thank the commissioner for the information that he has been working on the matter, for we want that park.

A certain Dixon college student from the southern part of the county, whose father is a supervisor, and who played on the football team (further identification is prohibited) has had his injured ear repaired so he can again visit the north side and spoon on the front porch with the lady of his dreams. The above information is vouched for by Will Phalen.

It is reported that a certain young man, well known on the ave., was to have been married in Mendota Monday evening, but that he forgot all about it while setting 'em up on his approaching nuptials.

LOSS WILL REACH $1,500,000

Fire Starts in Rear of Gibson House
From the Explosion of a Gasoline
Torch—Many People Are Overcome by Smoke.

Cincinnati, Dec. 11.—Fire that threatened to destroy the entire business block bounded by Walnut street, Vine street, Fourth avenue, and Fifth avenue, broke out in the rear of the Gibson house shortly after eight o'clock, destroying the Gibson house, Pousar's cafe, the building occupied by the Mecca cafe, the Bendigs-Lothman building on Fourth avenue, the Missouri Pacific railway building on Walnut street, the W. L. Douglas shoe company building on Walnut street, an abandoned building, several floors of the Union Trust building at Fourth avenue and Walnut street, part of the Honing hotel and part of the Johnston building.

Property Loss $1,500,000.
The loss of property as a whole is roughly estimated at $1,500,000. The fire started in the frame work that has been erected in the rear of the old Gibson house, where the new building was being erected.

Men were working in a 30-foot deep excavation with gasoline torches when one of them exploded, setting fire to the wood frame work. A strong east wind, sweeping through the rear of the building, caught the tiny blaze and it spread like wildfire.

Turn in General Alarm.
A still alarm was turned in, but before the firemen could reach the scene the flames, fanned by the strong wind, had swept into the Gibson house and were licking out of every window and crevice in the building. A general alarm was turned in, but the flames had gotten such a start that the entire fire department of the city could not prevent them from spreading to the surrounding buildings, and in the course of an hour the entire block was a seething mass of flames, the firemen giving up the hotel and buildings on either side of it in a combined effort to save the Union Trust building and keep the flames from spreading to the Mercantile Library building on the other side of Walnut street and from leaping across the alley in the rear and spreading to the buildings fronting on Vine street.

Hotel Guests Escape.
At the first alarm of fire and before the blaze had spread into the hotel, Clerk Kelly, who was on duty, notified every room in the hotel and every guest and person in the lobby, barber shop and bar, were gotten safely to the street without injury. Manager Martin of the Gibson house happened to be behind the desk when the still alarm was sent in and he personally supervised the safe removal of the guests.

Scrub Woman Suffocated.
Mrs. Josephine Bannecker, one of the scrub women employed in the Union Trust building, was overcome by the dense smoke, carried out by firemen and sent to the City hospital in a patrol.

John Mullaney, janitor in the Union Trust building, was overcome on the ninth floor and was taken to the City hospital in the police auto.

Mrs. Kate Hassett was at work scrubbing on the ninth floor with 16 other women and was suffocated by the smoke. She was also removed to the City hospital and later taken to her home.

The Union Trust and Savings Bank company's building is an 18-story office building. It was supposed to have been a fireproof structure, but once the flames caught hold, the whole interior went like paper and almost all of the huge structure was gutted.

70 KILLED IN BATTLE

Mexican Federals and Rebels Engage in Bloody Fights.

Washington, Dec. 11.—What is supposed to have been the biggest battle yet between federals and rebels in Mexico took place at Chalchihuites, in Zacatecas, where there was continuous fighting for three or four days, the dead bodies of 70 rebels having been counted in the streets after the engagement.

Dramatic Notes

TALENTED MUSICIANS.

Devern Haydn and Newman, who are to be at the Family theatre the last half of this week, come highly recommended as musicians of a very high order. Miss Haydn, who sings and plays the piano, is a relative of Mrs. Ingraham and is a cultivated musician. Mr. Newman is a violinist of ability and the violin which he uses is unique in being 195 years old and having been in his family that long.

It is seldom that a vaudeville act of so high an order ever comes to the smaller towns.

VAUDEVILLE THURSDAY.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the opera house of this week. The management has secured two feature acts direct from the big time circuit. The Rose City Four, colored comedy jubilee singers, and Chas. Gaylor, America's greatest novelty equilibrist; 3 reels of the latest motion pictures, changed each night.

PRINCESS—CHICAGO

"Bought and Paid For," with its rapidly shifting currents of thrills and laughter, has become more firmly established at the Princess theatre, Wm. A. Brady's Chicago playhouse, as the season's striking comedy dramatic success, and is now in the ninth week of its unlimited engagement. In the quality of Mr. Broadhurst's play scarcely less than the manner of its presentation this attraction has earned the commendation of the general public to the end that the theatre is completely filled at every performance, and in most instances the applicants for admission are far in excess of the interior space.

Frank Mills, Frank Craven, Kathleen McDonnell and Helen Lackaye still contribute the highest of values to this entertainment, which is unique in several respects, particularly to the fact of its having introduced a character long familiar to everyday life, but strangely enough new to the stage—that of James Gilley, the impudent young barnacle waiting for a chance to attach himself to some millionaire appreciative of his qualities.

Seats are now on sale for all performances as far ahead as Washington's Birthday.

YOUR STOMACH, LIVER AND 30 FEET OF BOWELS OF SOUR
BILE, DECAYING FOOD, GASES AND CLOGGED-UP WASTE

You old people, Syrup of Figs is particularly for you. You who don't like the easy chair. You, whose steps are slow and whose muscles are less elastic. You must realize that your liver and ten yards of bowels have also become less active.

Don't regard Syrup of Figs as physic. It stimulates the liver and bowels just as exercise would if you took enough of it. It is not harsh like salts or cathartics. The help which Syrup of Figs gives to a torpid liver and weak, sluggish bowels is harmless, natural and gentle.

When eyes grow dim, you help them. Do the same with your liver and bowels when age makes them less active. There is nothing more important. Costive, clogged-up bowels mean that decaying, fermenting or ducts in these thirty feet of bowels food is clogged there and the pores week at the church on Thursday at 4 p. m.

Mrs. Cook from near Polo is visiting her mother, Mrs. Ellen Sweet, at present.

Mr. Lewis, our bustling barber, returned the last of the week from a trip to Chicago, where he had been called by the illness of his brother-in-law. He left the latter in a serious condition.

We have heard many criticisms of late upon conditions in our school. Some of them are aimed at the alleged lack of order, and others at the alleged lack of high moral standards on the part of the scholars in the higher grades. Whether this criticism is just, we are not in position to say, but we offer this humble suggestion which we believe, if adopted, would go far toward remedying whatever evils do exist. Let the husky daddy of little Johnnie or big Willie which ever the case may be, inform his aspiring offspring that whenever he fails in obedience or gentlemanly conduct at school and is punished, that he may expect an interview with his father out in the shed when he gets home. If this interview is made properly interesting and lively the fun and smartness of "making it interesting for teacher" will largely disappear. What this community and many others need, in our humble judgment, is a large increase in the number of old-fashioned daddies who know how to maintain "family government."

The debate on women's suffrage, which was postponed until next Monday night, promises to be of great interest. We presume that by that time both sides will have fully prepared and we may expect a discriminating discussion of the subject. All are invited.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society will meet this week at the home of Mrs. Edna Cole. Meeting called to order at 3 p. m.

Christmas exercises will be held in the West Brooklyn M. E. church on Monday evening, Dec. 23 at Compton on Tuesday evening, Dec. 24 and at the church in the Beron Wednesday evening, Dec. 25. Friends and neighbors all invited.

YOUNG MEN HELD AS BLACKMAILERS

Charged With Demanding
$5,000, in Letters, From Governor Wilson.

CAPTURED IN A WILDERNESS

Uncouth Country Boys Are Brought Before U. S. Commissioner Stockton and Held Under $2,000 Bail—Be Examined Monday.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 11.—Three rough and sullen young mountaineers, who in their dugout in the wild highlands of New Jersey, had dreamed of blackmailing the president-elect of the United States, were brought here by three fabled officers of the federal police.

That they "did knowingly and willfully use the United States mails for furthering a scheme to defraud Mr. Woodrow Wilson of Trenton, N. J.," was the wording of the charge placed against them. What they had actually done, according to the officers, was to send seven letters to Mr. Wilson during the last month, demanding that he deliver to them $5,000 under threat.

The first letter reached the governor's office in Trenton on November 11. The last one reached him in Bermuda.

Did Not Alarm Governor Wilson.
While Mr. Wilson expressed no alarm, his friends immediately placed the matter in the hands of Post Office Inspector Cortelyou at Philadelphia.

On the day the first letter was received deputy marshals, secret service men and post office inspectors throughout the state were hunting the blackmailers.

Meanwhile the persistent repetition of the threats went on. The first letters had made December 4 the time limit for the delivery of the money, but that day passed and the next letter extended the time limit to December 15.

To Deputy United States Marshal Louis G. Beckman and Post Office Inspectors Francis Butler and Clinton Larabee had been assigned the most important and difficult task of keeping secret watch on a rural free delivery post box on a mountain road near Wharton, N. J. It was in this box that the money was to be left, according to the demands of the blackmailers.

Capture Men in Wilderness.
It was in the desolate wilderness, among the abandoned mines north of Lake Hopateong and about fourteen miles from Dover, that Beckman and the inspectors captured the three suspects.

The prisoners are Warren Dunn, his brother Jacob and Seelye Davenport—typical "poor whites" of the hills.

United States Commissioner Richard Stockton had retired when they arrived here. He arose and accompanied them to his office shortly before midnight, where the prisoners were arraigned and held in $2,000 bail each. They were sent to the Essex county jail, and will be examined next Monday.

MORGAN SWAYS BANKS

Untermeyer Tries to Get Frew to Admit Magnate's Power.

Growth of Bankers' Trust Company
From $3,000,000 to $168,000,000
Deposits Gone Into.

Washington, Dec. 11.—"The Morgan influence" in New York banking formed the basis for most of the day's session of the house money trust investigation committee, with Walter E. Frew, a banker and president of the New York Clearing House association, under a fire of questions by Samuel Untermeyer, the committee's attorney.

Mr. Untermeyer sought in vain to get Mr. Frew to admit that the phenomenal rise of the Bankers' Trust company deposits—from $5,000,000 in 1903 to $168,000,000 at the present time—was due to the influence of J. P. Morgan & Co.

"To what do you attribute the phenomenal rise?" asked Mr. Untermeyer.

"Well, the Bankers' Trust company absorbed the Manhattan Trust company and the Mercantile Trust company."

"Do you attribute it to that?"

"Partly, partly to good government."

POLICE KILL BANDIT

Force Surrounds Lonely Cabin and Capture Men.

Officers Take Train Robbers After Slaying One in a Fierce Fusillade of Bullets.

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 11.—Kinney Bergman, train bandit and crackman, was killed and three other bandits who have terrorized the trainmen and robbed banks and post offices throughout the southwest in the last two years, were captured here in a raid by detectives in a lonely hut in the south part of the city.

The men captured are: Frank Mitchell, John McCoy and Frank Holloway. Holloway escaped from the Oklahoma state prison. The men are believed to have held up the two Rock Island trains across the river from Memphis about a year ago.

When the detectives surrounded the hut where the men were in hiding, Bergman, leader of the gang, climbed to the roof. He was naked. As he scrambled along the roof Bergman lost his footing and fell to the ground, breaking both legs. He continued his fight until shot to death.

THE CON GAME

Faithful old Dobbin in his stall awaits my early morning call; and when he sees me drawing nigh he wags his ear and bats his eye, and greets me with a friendly grin, as if my stony heart to win; he paws the floor with eager feet, and then I know it's time to treat. But I would wager twenty groats 'tis not for friendship, but for oats; I'll bet that loud cream-colored necker was issued for a bale of hay. My equine friend, you're on the job; you surely are a wise old cob; for if you'd kick the barn half down or hand me out a doleful frown, the chances are that you would draw a meal of mouldy bran and straw. I'm up against it every day—that hearty, cheerful, guileless way. The politician comes around and shakes my hand and paws the ground and asks about the baby's health, and wishes me success and wealth. The sleek promoter canters in and nicks for my hard earned tin; he hands out such a pleasant look, then reaches for my pocketbook. I know; like Dobbin good and kind they have their little axe to grind; and if they came with long-eared gloom, I'd swiftly kick them from the room; but being made of human stuff, I fall for bull-con and the bluff. The whole world understands the game, but deals out rations just the same.

TRAMP MET HIS MATCH

KNIGHT OF THE ROAD HAD NO MONOPOLY OF HUMOR.

Forced in the End to Be Content With Sniffing the Savory Stew He Had Hoped to Sample, He Went His Way.

The weary tramp sauntered idly along the highway. It had been a beautifully lazy day, just suited to the uses of a dolce far niente poet like himself, and his distaste for effort increased as he passed along. His only inconvenience was that something within told him that he was hungry. It was probably his stomach, since it had not been overburdened with food for several days—not because there was not plenty of it to be had, but because he had sturdily adhered to his anti-laboring principles. Work he considered disgraceful, and he was not going to fasten a blot of any kind on his escutcheon by accepting any kind of a job if he could help it. It was a favorite theory of his that the world owed him a living, and he maintained that an honest world would voluntarily come and pay its debt and not force him to dun it like a common garden day laborer with either an ax, a spade, or hoe. It was pretty near dinner time as he drew near to the farmhouse, and, pausing before the kitchen window, he leaned gracefully against the sill and complimented the lady of the house, who stood within, upon the delicate aroma of a veal stew that stood simmering upon the kitchen stove.

"Pretty good stew you have there," said he, sniffing its fragrance with all the air of a connoisseur. "Reminds me of the kind my mother used to make."

"Ya-as," returned the lady of the house, who had a nice sense of humor. "It's stew good for them as ain't willin' to work for it."

"All the same," said he, "I'm a man of taste, and I wouldn't mind havin' a taste of that."

"Ye can have it," said the lady of the house pleasantly, "when ye've earned it. Can you saw that wood?"

The tramp shivered, but answered promptly. "You'll excuse me, madam," said he, with an uneasy glance at the woodpile, "but I must correct your English. I bin a student of English all my life. What you should have is, 'Can you see that wood,' not saw."

"Thank ye, professor," said the lady, smiling. "It's so long since I went to school that my grammar air a little weak, and I accept the correction. Can you see that wood?"

"I sure can," replied the weary tramp. "My eyesight is as sharp as my appetite."

"Waal, eat all ye want of it," said the lady genially. "There's a pile of it, and more where it come from."

"But I can't eat wood," retorted the tramp.

"No, professor," replied the lady, "but I thought mebbe ye had an axe with ye, so's ye could help yourself to a chop as ye went by."

Whereupon the hungering hobo resumed his way, cursing the day that humor was invented.—Judge.

PENINSULAR WAR CENTENARY.

Mr. Arthur Keyser, the British consul for Seville, in his annual report, says: During the Napoleonic wars Cadiz was the only town in Spain which successfully resisted the French invaders, and when at last a parliament was constituted in 1812 it assembled in this town, where it was proclaimed constitutional, thus ending the period of absolute rule. In commemoration of this event and in fulfillment of a promise then made by the government, which owed its existence to the patriotism of Cadiz inhabitants and to the assistance rendered to Spain by the British and Portuguese armies under Wellington, congress has decided to devote the sum of 1,500,000 pesetas ($280,000) to erecting a monument in honor of the allies and to de-fraying the cost of centenary celebration of an international nature. Half the above amount will cover the cost of the monument, and the remainder will be applied to festivities to which representatives of the United Kingdom, Portugal and South American Republics will be invited.

Queer Luncheon.

An elderly, roly-poly sort of man has been seen to consume a lunch every day for a week that takes the prize for oddity. The waitress brings to him a plate of French ice cream and a bowl of hot milk, the bowl being covered with a saucer. Between small spoonfuls of the ice cream he ladles out a little of the milk into the ice cream and then a little of the milk into another bowl, testing its temperature the while with sips. By the time the milk has become sufficiently cooled to suit his idea of the proper temperature at which to drink it the ice cream has been consumed. He never orders anything else for his noonday meal.—New York Press.

NEVER SAW DYNAMITE

M. J. Young Denies Any Part in the Conspiracy.

Witness Declares He Did Not Know That McNamara Got Money Until the Latter Was Arrested.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 11.—Michael J. Young of Boston, accused as an active promoter of explosions in eastern cities, testified in his own behalf at the dynamite conspiracy trial here. He declared that he never had participated in the McNamara plots. Young, who is a member of the Iron Workers' union executive board, is charged with approving the appropriation of $1,000 a month used by John J. McNamara for dynamiting purposes. He also was named by Orrie E. McNamagal as having pointed out nonunion jobs to be blown up.

McNagal said that when he caused an explosion in a new opera house in construction at Boston in March, 1909, Young met him and showed him where to put the explosive. On another trip, McNagal said, Young met him in Springfield, Mass., in April, 1911, and arranged for the dynamiter to blow up the tower of the Springfield municipal buildings.

Numerous letters between Young and McNamara were produced by the prosecution.

"Did you ever point out to McNagal a spot in the opera house in Boston and say, 'Put a shot in there and blow it to —?' " asked attorneys for the defense.

"I did not," answered Young. "I never talked to anyone about blowing up any place and never saw dynamite in my life."

Shown canceled $1,000 checks payable to McNamara and marked "by order of the executive board," which, the government charges, enabled McNamara to carry on a dynamiting campaign on nonunion jobs extending from Boston to Los Angeles, Young said he did not learn McNamara received that money until after the latter's arrest.

Party's Leadership.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Following a wave of religious fervor that swept over the Progressive national conference, Theodore Roosevelt was nominated for president in 1916 and the singing, shouting men and women arose and made it unanimous.

Benjamin Fay Mills, evangelist, was just concluding an oration, likening the Progressive movement to a religious crusade, when he stopped and mentioned the name of Roosevelt. The cheering swept over the 1,200 men and women.

He then proposed Mr. Roosevelt as the standard bearer four years hence, and the demonstration was like that which produced pandemonium in the Coliseum convention last August.

Roosevelt's Leadership Views.
Earlier in the proceedings Colonel Roosevelt, delivering his set speech to the conference, declared that the question of leadership would work itself out naturally and that the leaders would be developed by the events of the next two years.

Mr. Roosevelt's own words on the question of leadership, which were interpreted to mean that he would take the nomination in 1916, were as follows:

"In the matter of leadership, both local and national, we may trust the events of the next year or two to develop our ablest and most resourceful man. And for every position the leader must be chosen not in the least with reference to his own desires but solely with regard to the needs of the people, for the Progressive party is the servant of the people."

Colonel the Ablest.
The "events of the next year or two," as the leaders viewed the situation last night, will develop Mr. Roosevelt as the "ablest and most resourceful" man to carry the banner in 1916.

Following the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt by the conference, George W. Perkins, Frank Munsey, "Bill" Flinn of Pittsburg, Gifford Pinchot, McMill McCormick and others told why they were following Theodore Roosevelt. They said they wanted social justice in the United States.

A Touch of Sentiment.
A touch of sentiment swept the big audience and brought tears to many eyes when Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott was introduced. Mrs. Elliott is the daughter of the late Julia Ward Howe, author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." She told a new story that had to do with her mother, which has not heretofore been published.

"A short time before my dear mother died," she said, "she came downstairs one morning with her beautiful face glowing like an alabaster vase with a light behind it. She told us she had a vision."

"I said to her, 'No, mother, not a vision, but a dream.' 'Oh,' she said, 'it was not a dream, but a vision. I saw in my vision the men and women of my country working together, hand in hand, for the uplift of the people. It was a vision from on high.'"

"And as I recall it now, I believe my mother did have a vision from on high, and that she saw ahead two years and saw what we are witnessing today."

Veteran Leads Chorus.
Senator Dixon, who was presiding, began to look a bit worried, when an old soldier, in blue uniform, stood up and began in a rich, deep voice to sing with all his might.

Twelve hundred voices joined in and they sang it over and over again, while Mrs. Elliott stood on the platform with head bowed, and Senator Dixon wiped his eyes with both hands and turned his face to the wall.

Evangelist Mills spoke up, saying: "Surely this movement is as Senator Dixon characterized it in the Coliseum last August. This is not politics—it is religion."

Senator Flinn of Pittsburg and George W. Perkins proved to be two of the biggest hits of the entire conference. Both were given noisy greetings after the big crowd had called for them for several minutes.

"I am for anything Theodore Roosevelt wants, and I will follow him wherever he leads," said Flinn. "Down in Pennsylvania we are not worrying over the organization for the next fight. We've captured our state and we're going to keep it."

Give Credit to Suspenders.
"Notice what a difference the first nip of cool weather makes in the carriage of most men?" a prominent physician asked the other day. "See how their shoulders are thrown back, their chins thrust forward and the general elasticity of their step?" "Yes, I've noticed it," his companion replied.
"Cold weather certainly braces a man up." "You are right there," the doctor replied, "but there is something that plays a more important part than the mere fact that the air is cold.
What? Suspenders? Yes, sir! Soon as the weather gets cool a man wears a vest. That means that he lays his belt aside and resorts to suspenders.
No man can walk erect and with that air of alertness without them. The reason is simple. The natural way to walk is with the chest thrown out and the allowance drawn in. When a man wears a belt he cannot do that because his trousers will sink down and he will be very uncomfortable generally.
When his trousers are suspended from his shoulders he can walk naturally."

She Knew Better.

nings; one can never get him to go."
